

Northeast Ohio has a retention problem. The area is currently a net-zero population growth region where engaging employees can make a huge difference economically, culturally, and socially.

Cleveland has a fascinating history and culture, and its current challenges and opportunities are rooted in that history. Approximately 75% of all adults who live in Ohio were born and raised here, and most people in Northeast Ohio have not received any formal education on the region's past, present, and future.

We help organizations develop a closer connection to the community by providing engrossing content, appealing discussions, and immersive experiences. We believe that by engaging people in transformative place-based experiences, we cultivate powerful connections between them and their communities, inspiring them to contribute in positive ways.
